Entorhinal firing anchors to the task reference frame and tracks uncued engagement anchoring helps most when the zone must be found by path integration

Grid cells and fast-spiking interneurons follow it most strongly, and every class's state predicts behaviour

The state is attentional engagement, with a frequency-specific change in the field potential

